

For half their lives, five guys from Winterthur have been shaking up the Swiss rock scene under the name Jack Slamer. With their third studio album Keep Your Love Loud, they followed up in 2021 with some heavy shows and a tour through Spain. After that, things went a bit quieter around the band. It was time to sort things out, take new paths, and reassess the situation.

In 2024 the decision was finally made: it's far from time to hang up the stage clothes! Back are the boys from the neighbourhood – with fresh wind in their sails and packed with the energy of the live-show drought. From now on, however, in a slightly different line-up: Cyrill left the band and was replaced by Omar. With the new guitarist, the groove naturally changed too: a little less Woodstock, a bit more Denim & Leather. What remains is the goal: Rock'n'Roll – loud, live and sweat-soaked!

Jack Slamer at its newest – full of energy, pushing the limits in their new formation. First, four new songs were written and recorded in the band's own rehearsal-room studio. Even before these singles were unleashed on the public, Jack Slamer had already dived into producing their next full-length album. For this, the quintet moved into the legendary Kerwax Analog Recording Studio in Brittany in 2025 to capture their new sound straight to tape.

So you better get ready for the new music from Jack Slamer – uncompromising, loud, and ready to soak every shirt in sweat.

Stay tuned, it's only Rock'n'Roll but it feels damn good!
